- is unlikely to return to a previous industry or occupation;
- has been laid off or received a lay-off notice from their employer (last or current year);
- was self-employed but is now unemployed due to economic conditions or natural disaster; or

A displaced homemaker is generally a person who previously provided unpaid services to the family (for example: a stay-at-home mom or dad), is no longer supported by the husband or wife, is unemployed or underemployed, and is having trouble finding or upgrading employment.
